Back to the May Fair Hotel for November 2021

Welcome to our fourth ancient art, antiquities and coin auction of the year. We are pleased to welcome you back to the Crystal Ballroom in London with the following exciting schedule:

Monday 29th November
12 Noon: Start of viewing
6pm: Champagne Reception

Tuesday 30th November
9am: Start of viewing
10am: Antiquities Auction Day 1 (lot 1 - 500)

The objects in this sale were inspected and vetted by a committee of more than twelve archaeologists, experts and specialists. The majority of the team met on 7th-8th October and included several professionals from other European countries, including a highly respected former head curator of a national museum. I would also like to take this opportunity to welcome Professor Neritan Ceka, a renowned archaeologist of Albania and the Western Balkans, to the cataloguing and consultancy team. His knowledge and experience is a great asset to the team.

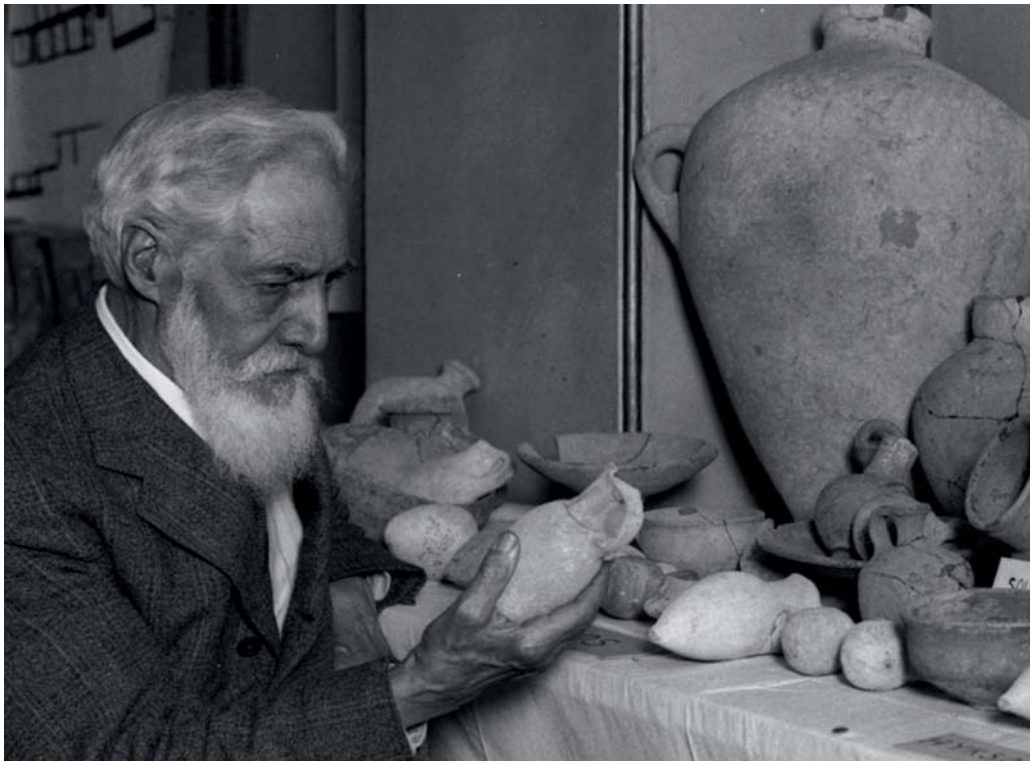
The September sale was the first 'under my wing', so to speak. It was an enormous success with 90% of lots sold to bidders from a total 43 countries spread across the entire globe. Our star lot was lot 374, the Corinthian Hoplite Helmet, which achieved £114,300 (inc Bp). Other highlights, to name just a few, included lot 24, the Egyptian Silver Finger Stalls, sold for £48,578; lot 69, the Roman Marble Head of Apollo, which achieved £57,150; lot 245, the Achaemenid Gold Bracelets, sold for £35,560; lot 375, the Battle-Speared Illyrian Helmet, which sold for £48,578; and lot 452, 'The Whixall Stone', the oldest piece of art ever discovered in Shropshire, a find of significant importance. We would like to extend our thanks to its new owner for allowing the Shropshire Museum to have the object on loan.

Our September catalogue is dedicated to the prominent Egyptologist, the late Sir William Matthew Flinders Petrie. You will find the dedication as a second news item.

Lastly, I was proud to attend the opening of the new local museum in Harwich, a project almost entirely achieved through the hard work of local volunteers. It is well worth a visit the next time you are in town visiting us.

Yours sincerely,

Dr. Raffaele D'Amato
(Head of Antiquities)



SIR WILLIAM MATTHEW FLINDERS PETRIE

Sir William Matthew Flinders Petrie (1853-1942) first travelled to Egypt in 1880 to survey the Great Pyramid of Giza. In 1884 he was hired by Amelia Edwards, founder of the Egyptian Exploration Fund, to conductexcavations on behalf of the society. Little did Edwards know that the 30-year-old Flinders Petrie was to become the father of modern Egyptology.

Petrie's mother and father, a scholar and surveyor, educated Petrie at home. His grandfather, Captain Matthew Flinders, was the first known circumnavigator of Australia. Inspired by his family's achievements, Petriestarted surveying British prehistoric monuments as a teenager, beginning with the late Romano-British camp close to his family home in Charlton, near Greenwich. At the age of 19, he produced the most systematic and accurate survey of Stonehenge to have been achieved at that time.

The sites discovered and explored by Petrie number amongst the most ancient and important in ancient Egypt: Hawara, Aswan, Amarna, Thebes and Ramesseum to name but a few. Petrie's innovative thinking gave birth to the development and application of seriation in Egyptology, a method which links styles of pottery with particular time periods to establish the chronology of a site. When Petrie discovered the Merneptahstele, the earliest known historical reference to Israel, he said: "This stele will be better known in the world than anything else I have found."

Although he received little formal education, Petrie penned copious numbers of works in his lifetime: ninety-seven books and around nine hundred articles. In 1904, Petrie published 'Methods and Aims in Archaeology', the definitive work of his time, in which he observed that research results were dependent on the personality of the archaeologist, who, in addition to a broad knowledge base, had to possess insatiable curiosity.
In 1892 Petrie was made Edwards Professor of Ancient Archaeology and Philology at University College London. In 1894 he founded the Egyptian Research Account, which became the British School of Archaeology in 1905. Petrie eventually sold his collection of Egyptian antiquities to University College in 1913 and it is now housed in the Museum of Egyptian Archaeology.

In 1923 Sir William Matthew Flinders Petrie was knighted for services to British archaeology and Egyptology. In 1926 the focus of Petrie's work shifted to Palestine, where he began excavating several important sites in the south-west region of the country, including Tell el-Jemmeh and Tell el-Ajjul. Upon his death in Jerusalem on 28 July 1942, Petrie's body was interred in the Protestant cemetery on Mount Zion, whilst his head was donated by his wife to The Royal College of Surgeons of London.
